

METHODS, SYSTEMS AND COMPUTER PROGRAM PRODUCTS FOR COMMUNICATING WITH UNCONFIGURED NETWORK DEVICES ON REMOTE NETWORKS

5

Abstract of the Disclosure

Methods, system and computer program products for establishing a connection to a network device which does not have an assigned network address. A connection is established from a configuring device to the network device 10 utilizing an unassigned network address for the network to which the network device is attached irrespective of whether the network device is attached to a network local to or remote from the configuring device. The network device may be configured utilizing the established connection. A network address may also be 15 assigned to the device irrespective of whether the network device is attached to a network local to or remote from the configuring device.